$16,700,000 NEEDED FOR COLUMBIA MEDICAL PLAN

Proposed Centre on Washington Heights Will Rival Any in the World—Expect Great Benefit for the City.

Official Announcement Was Made by Columbia University Yesterday of Plans for the New Medical Center

Official announcement was made by Columbia University yesterday of plans for the new medical center comprising the Presbyterian Hospital and the College of Physicians and Surgeons which is to be built on the site of the old American League baseball park at Broadway and 165th street.

According to the Columbia estimate the total cost of the project will be $16,700,000 and it will give to New York a centre of medical learning comparable to those of Paris, Vienna and Berlin. The Presbyterian Hospital's share of the expenditure will be $9,200,000 while the College of Physicians and Surgeons will contribute $7,500,000.

The estimated cost of the 9.2 acre site on Washington Heights is $2,000,000, and $10,000,000 will be expended for buildings, including a 650 bed hospital. It is estimated that an endowment of nearly $7,000,000 will be required for maintenance. The following excerpts are taken from the report:

The plans under consideration by the management of the Presbyterian Hospital provide for a building designed to contain 650 beds. It will include regular services for internal medicine and general surgery which form the basis of every general hospital. In addition, there will be eight separate wards for the treatment of various diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, for diseases of children, for diseases of the nervous system and for diseases of the skin, and ward service for every department represented in the Vanderbilt Clinic, as well as 75 private rooms for the treatment of patients.

Cancer Research Department.

The buildings of the new College of Physicians and Surgeons must contain all the departments which are now housed in the present buildings, in addition sufficient room for the permanent location of the George Crocker Cancer Research Foundation. In the present buildings of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, the department can be said to have a sufficient accommodation, and even that is overcrowded because of the very poor arrangement of the present buildings.

REICHSTAG SPLIT OVER WAR POLICY

Socialists Strongly Oppose Territorial Expansion as Victory Price.

LIEBKNECHT LEADS FIGHT

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.

BERLIN, June 1.—The newspapers report at great length a war debate in the Reichstag on May 29 when vigorous demands were made by the Conservative, Liberal and National leaders for substantial territorial expansion as a price for Germany's victory.

There was bitter opposition to these sentiments from the Socialists, in consequence of which there were violent protests against Herr Liebknecht, who had just returned from the front, where the Government sent him. He became the object of a hostile demonstration in which cries of "Throw him out" were heard and threats of physical violence were made. Others yelled, "Let the Red food talk."

The anti-Socialist Deputies admitted that the proceedings revealed an unimpeachable breach between the Socialists and other German parties. The Socialist Elbert declared that war having been declared by Germany, it must not end as a war of conquest. Count Westarp, a Conservative, dissented, and exclaimed that it was a question of honor for Germany never again to permit such conduct as the German nation had now undertaken.

NEED FUND OF $7,500,000.

In addition, the hospital will need sums sufficient to enable it to carry on the entire plant to its full capacity. The building of the proposed medical centre will also add to the hospital facilities of the city a new hospital, which is much needed in this vicinity. The upper West Side of the city has not been supplied either with the hospital beds or with the ambulance service required to care for that section in an efficient manner. The removal of the Presbyterian Hospital from its present location to the new site, accordingly, will be a most important step in the effective distribution of hospital service.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.

He has fallen into the background when compared with Hindenburg and the late Emperor, and the Kaiser, who perished with U-29, but at the same time he was never so popular before.

"Nobody makes the Kaiser responsible for the war," the correspondent writes. "Everybody believes he tried to prevent it, but that when, despite his efforts it was brought on by the determination of the Kaiser to crush the military power of Germany in order to annihilate her trade and industries, the Kaiser should bear the heavy burden with the deepest sorrow."

"He is represented as having given Field Marshal von Hindenburg a completely free hand, and to have waited every consideration that might have mitigated against the practical efficiency in waging war."

Mrs. Boissevain Describes Submarine's Pursuit of the St. Paul.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE PRINTS THIS MORNING A LONDON DESPATCH FROM

morning a London despatch from Mrs. Boissevain which says that the American liner St. Paul, on which she was a passenger, was chased by a submarine right up to the bar of the Mersey, and that her information came from the captain himself, who confided it to her and Guglielmo Marconi before they landed.

"As we approached the war zone," says Mrs. Boissevain, "rather elaborate precautions were taken to safeguard Mr. Marconi. His name was not on either the regular list of the ship's passengers, and there was a general tacit agreement among the passengers that if the St. Paul was stopped by a submarine and Mr. Marconi's person demanded, we all would 'lie like gentlemen.'"

"Meanwhile Mr. Marconi removed all the labels from his luggage, gave his private papers into my care and got into clothes suitable for slipping into a hiding place. The chief engineer said that the chief engineer said that the captain himself would be unable to find him."

"We had a concert that night at which Mr. Marconi was to preside, and the program was inadvertently printed with his name as chairman. The following day the program was destroyed, and when the concert began the historical Mr. Trevelyan took the chair, saying:

"We were to have had the pleasure of having Mr. Marconi preside, but unfortunately he is not on board."
